85 rear wheel drive a/t toyota l.e.van - $1700

yoyoyoyoyoyoyo!

gonna kick around here till october

i am either gonna drive on back to the lower 48 or sell her here and fly on back south i own 3 of these, i loves em this has done 5 round trip summers from austin thats 5 times with out a problem' 260,000 miles without the motor touched. changed oil every 3000 dual moonroofs set up for bed in the back 23-32 mpg's not for winter use.

call me xxx-xxx-xxxx adam she has been so good to daddy i will hate to see her go.

rare toyota van '85-86, dual moonroofs, runs great, no a/c 24-32 mpg - $1750

Date: 2006-08-03, 2:56PM AKDT

this wont be available till the end of september.
it has no rear seats, just a 2 piece plywood platform to sleep on and stow gear underneath sliding side windows, great for sleeping.
dual moonroofs, the one in the back is almost 3 square feet when open it has made the round trip from the lower 48... 5 1/2 times i left it in alaska last summer due to high fuel prices
i am returning there soon for some hiking and camping if you want a shot at it, leave me a voicemail and when i arrive i will contact you for a look see.

this is fantastic for someone who has worked all season and needs a good reliable ride out before winter.

it is a 2 wheel drive rear wheel drive vehicle, not recommended for snow or ice.

hi

this is a used toyota van 260,000

many more miles left

it runs great

had a new toyota transmission put in 3 years ago

new front end 2 years ago

new tires new brakes and hardware cracked windsheild

no rear seating (for camping and daily work van)

ac doesnt work

stereo is no good dash is weather worn other than that it passes inspection every time gets great gas mileage, 25-27mpg's great van besides being a regular daily work van

i also used it to drive to alaska 6 times, and it spent 8 summers traveling all over alaska, canada, northwest usa...

its was a great camper

very spartan

a few dings on the outside too

but a very reliable van

Cargo surf camping toyota van gas work slider door ac beach 1988 - $6500 (Huntington Beach)

1988 Toyota Cargo van. Rare. 132k miles. Runs great. 4 cyl 2-2 automatic engine. COLD ac. FULLY CARPETED INTERIOR. The green board is plywood that we use for a bed. We fold it out and support it with that home depot bucket. Has privacy curtains in front and back. 2 straps on ceiling to hang surfboard as shown, or we have used it for fishing poles. Both wheel wells open up for storage. Tool box is mine. No low ball offers. Priced to sell. Only serious buyers please. We love this van, just wanting to get a bigger one for longer trips.

☆ Toyota Van 1986 RWD (not running, but I'm close to solution!) - $950

So I have this Van, it's a lot of fun, I absolutely love it, but I need something more spacious. My occupation is painting murals around the country, and normally I drive instead of fly. So this is my travel art rig, but one day she decided to not start. I replaced the battery to find myself in stupid mode and replaced the battery backwards. Since I've replaced all fusible links and fuses, got her to start but then it wouldn't want to stay on after I'd flip on the lights/heater/ect. I realized when I replaced the ground wire I didn't ground it to the frame, then body, I just grounded to frame. SOOOOO I decided to redo it, only to be back to ground 1, car won't start. I'm gonna keep working on it till its fixed, in which I'll increase the price, or someone can come take this headache off my hands before I begin stabbing the damn car. ( okay thats dramatic) It's probably an easy fix, the starter is good, the alt I believe is good, its just a loose connection I'm hoping, I'm currently cleaning terminals and such and going to try again. Soooo if anyone wants it, come get it. I'll also trade for a small motor home like the chinooks or a good ol pickup (idc if it runs or not as long as you have an idea whats wrong with it.) So there you go, $950 and it's yours, otherwise I will continue to work on it and repost it for sale for probably $1500. These things are sweeeeeet, I just need more space, I need a kitchen in my mobility! Starving artist's need to eat too. Cheers!

"The truth is I don't think I can handle owning a car in such nice condition right now..."

"it was my daily driver and i work all over the 5 boroughs 5-6 days a week.

before it came to nyc it didn't have any dents. it's been through madmax shit since then and has the scars to prove it. i never even tried to fix any of the cosmetic stuff, it's just character to me.

had the hose of death was replaced about 5 years ago. has a ghost in the electric, horn ceases functioning every few months. ask me anything. i don't know where to start with all of this. i've owned it 9 years and its been a long and wild ride. it was even stolen once. the check engine light is periodically coming on and i'm unsure why. i've dumped about $3k into it this year. it has a lot of minor issues. but these things are known to go 300k+ miles i just registered it with some movie car sires but haven't had time to follow through with it. a couple tv shows have expressed interest in having this van in a movie/tv show. but it hasn't happened yet and"

1986 Toyota Van $3950 OBO

" 85 Toyota Van runs, low orig miles, no frame rust, needs cosmetic, OBO - $1200 (Southern Maine)

1985 Toyota Van fuel : gas transmission : manual title status : clean

1985 (Antique) Toyota Van (sometimes referred to as Van Wagon)

Rare in that it has basically no rust rot (from the south west), and...rare in that it has 169K original miles & runs & drives beautifully. And rare that you don't see many on the road anymore. It also has both sets of rear bench seat (2-seat-er & a 3-seat-er) & carpet.

Power windows. 5 speed transmission. Very light for a mini-van & 2wd (which saves on gas).

Rear-wheel drive for hauling & towing, with a tow trailer hitch.

I'm looking for highest cash offer.

I was going to restore body damage with a friend's help, but the friend (with the skills) moved away, before we got into makin' it pretty... and life got busy.

I'm hoping someone out there who wants to finish the restoration will see what a great & rare find this is, and maybe finish restoring it. It is impressively unusual... as anyone who drives it will notice the effect it has on people when you drive by.

It does need cosmetic work outside from being banged up here & there, and...it needs cosmetic work inside from the wear & tear of time & lack of care.

Actually, the ceiling in the back has been replaced (already) with tongue-in-groove real wood.

We've also put padding in, under the rug in back, for sound control & insulation.

Solid wooden racks have been added to the top (the previous owner was a lover of surfing).

I have removed the center set of seats, but I have the set stored in my garage for the next owner.

(Thanks to previous "surfer dude", there are also a few surfer stickers & a wiggling **Hula Dancer** on the dashboard, complete with grass skirt.)

I won't respond, if your e-mail appears to be "too simple" or otherwise spam-like.

Do please, make an offer, though... even if it is contingent.

I love this van, and know how rare it is to find an 80's Toyota Van, much less one that is running, low miles, and rust free!!!

But I need to sell it. :( "

FREE You can have everything but the Body.

this van in the picture is not for sale, just a picture of my van to show what the body style is Picture only: parts van is SILVER not yellow OK?

"Comes with a removable bench seat (not Toyota) for the rear (no seat belts) and a round pedestal table that unscrews."

"I've had this van for 4 years, drove her across the country. I've replaced the cap/roter and fuel pump. Besides oil changes, that's all I've ever done to her. She runs well. Starts up every time."

"This is a great project for someone who has the time to really dial this baby in. I realized, don't have the time to do all the things I wanted to do with this bus."

TOYOTA VAN: Classic 1986 Original Van ( that still has KICK!!!) - $2500 (Capital Hill)
Hey World,

I'm selling my 1986 Toyota VAN.

So here's the deal. I bought this Van off of C-list about two years ago. The guy I bought it from said it was in perfect mechanical shape and that it was a solid daily commuter. He was lying through his teeth. Instead of digging deep into the van guts, I trusted the guy and got ripped off. So....

I believe in karma, and I will be straight with you. This van is only for someone who is mechanically minded and wants to put the time and effort to bring this van back to it's full potential. If you don't know anything about cars and you are just looking for a cool, hip van to drive, then this van is not for you. Only buy this if you are one of those people that loves getting attached to vehicles that deserve love. This van still has plenty of kick in it, you just gotta be willing to give it love.

I did this for two years, poured my soul into it and really am attached to the van. I bought the van for $2500 and have put well over $5000 into it, thinking that I was going to fully restore it. But, I decided that I just need something that is 4-wheel drive and burlier since I work in the mountains and am often on gnarly dirt roads. This van can handle it, but really isn't meant for where I need to go in the mountains.

So far, I have replaced:

- Fuel injectors
- Radiator and all hoses
- Water pump
- Temp monitor
- Alternator

- Starter
  - Harmonic Balance
  - Rear differential
  - Alignment
  - Brake pads + rotors
  - Change all fluids
  - New belts all around
  - Fixed heating
  - Struts
  - Headlights
  - Exhaust system
  - Replaced all tires
  - Gave this a proper tune-up
  - Put in a nice stereo and new speakers
  - And a few more things that I just can't remember right now.
- Needless to say, I've given this puppy a proper overhaul, so if you're looking for a van to breathe life into, I did most of the leg work for you.

What it still needs:

- Power steering pump needs replacement pretty soon.
- Needs new battery.
- Eventually, the engine dampers will need to be replaced, but not for a while.
- There is a slight engine knock, though me and my mechanic friends determined it is slight and that this engine could easily get another 100,000 miles. These engines are CHAMPS
- Fuel gauge doesn't always work, though the empty light always turns on, which gives you like 30-40mi of leeway.

Bonuses

- The interior is in beautiful shape
- The exterior isn't perfect by any means, lots of little scratches, though the color and shine is still there. personally, I don't care about this, I just like the overall look of the van.

-All the windows work (though they do like a little nudge of help)

-The moon roof works and is my favorite part of the van

-I have the other seat in storage.

-I have another set of rims and tires.

It does start up, and once it warms up, it is a smooth ride.

Serious buyers only. No joyrides. Only hit me up if you have cash and actual want this thing. Please know your shit and don't waste my time. We all have lives to live.

Has been reliable so far Comes with Some original parts I replaced along with new replacement parts / Interior Lighting

You may have seen this thing driving around town, its kind of a beautiful eye sore. It's been stored for 6 months while I was away for boot camp. It started right up after coming back to it (once I charged the battery). It is a mid-engine compact van, so the engine is directly under the drivers seat. She's been a reliable vehicle for me and friends for as long as I've owned it. Has successfully gotten me to Jacksonville FL and back (1800 mile trip) and has taken me and friends to Cincinnati OH and Cleveland OH multiple times to visit family and friends. Has been used to move furniture multiple times, utilizing the entire interior and safari rack and still hauled it well. I don't wish to sell this truthfully, but due to my lack of time home and going overseas I cannot meet standards required to ship overseas so I'm forced to sell. I am open to offers. All Cellular contact will be directed to my mother since I will be stationed abroad. To contact the actual owner Please shoot me an email. My friend will be around to answer any questions about the van that my mother cannot.

"I hate to let it go. Has 252,000 miles. Runs great. Heat works. New paint,fuel pump, alternator and battery in last year. Very reliable. Seats are in good shape. Cracks in dashboard. Air did work. My mechanic said I need new dryer. Tires and brakes are good. 3 Rd row seating. Seats 7. These vans are classic. I am just the 3rd owner. Original owner bought it at Edwards Toyota and then Toyota mechanic from Edwards bought it then I got it from him. Just crank it and go. Do not need help selling."

Selling my beautiful Toyota van! I've been projecting on it, living in it, travelled all around in it, loved it, painted it and now it's time to sell it.

Things I've done since I got it-

Replaced the dashboard

Replaced the power steering pump

Replaced the starter

Lifted it

Put in brand new KYB shocks

Gutted it

Replaced the 4x4 hoses

Custom painted it inside and out

It's a beautiful van with a lot of life left in her. The engine sounds great and it starts up flawlessly even after sitting for long periods of time.

I've had it up for sale and had quite a few responses for about double the price but as of recently the drive shaft will need replacing and I've taken out the stereo and speakers to put into another project. Drive shafts for these vans are $300. The van still drives using 4x4 with the front wheels engaged

This is an amazing one of a kind van epic for surfing, camping, awesome off road it'll just need that little extra push of TLC that I just don't have the time for right now.

Bring cash would love to see it go to a great home today!

This is my beloved Toyota Van for sale. I am moving to New York and I can not take it with me so I have to get rid of it now. This is a special vehicle, and I am hoping to pass it on to someone with a respect for these vans and a love of the outdoors and adventure. It has a little over 204,000 miles on it.

This 4WD van is rare and is a collector's item, so please contact me if you're interested in continuing the legacy of the vehicle.

I have also implemented a solar panel system in the van, so if you are interested in keeping the solar setup, let me know and I can keep it installed for a little extra.

New Alternator, New Stereo, and New Catalytic Converter.

I am asking 2600 OBO

So very sadly it has come to this. Up for sale is my awesome toyota van. I bought this van in hopes of restoring and customizing it as a live-aboard, so to speak. I had planned to live from my custom van and save all my money for future endeavours not having to pay rent. Anyway, I have done a bunch of work to the van with some docs to prove it. All for the dream. Well thats over and I need to regain my focus and with that I have to part from my van.

Here's what I have done:

Replace bvsv valve

Replaced all coolant hose

Repaired radiator( copper welded)

Replaced fuel pump and filter

Spark plugs

New front tires

Tags paid

Passed smog in july with 0% emissions( docs available)

Replaced mass air flow sensor

Fuel pump relay

New battery over

And with all that there is now some type of electronic problem suspected to be the ecu. But, my mechanic has yet to confirm. Van is located at Japan Auto in Ontario CA for now.

Its a great van, and still starts and runs but its not drivable. I lost my job because the van broke down on our way home I lost my job, and I cant afford it. I did most of the hard important stuff, now its someone elses turn to finish it.

RUNS GREAT

OVER 20 MILES PER GALLON CALL TOMMY

Farewell my old friend,

Ok everyone!!!!!!!!!! Sad but true.....I am parting ways with my old friend "Pancho" (My Toyota Van). He's been good to me trough thick and thin. We started a landscape business together with our dearly departed friend "Lefty" (the little old red wagon). He sheltered us through rainy trips to the beach and carried us through the mountains of Oregon, Idaho and Montana. He carried my tools, canoes, kayaks, skis, weapons, child, several girlfriends and my late buddy Jocko through many adventures. I have expanded the Scapelandia fleet and can no longer support a recreational vehicle. If you or someone you know needs a member of the A-Team to join your team and you promise to take him to Metro Metric where he receives his regular checkups, perhaps we can discuss adoption options. He just got his clean bill of health and is as fit a cello of half his age. I hope I can find him a good home.

"Odometer says 240k, but it hasn't worked for a couple years. Mileage is likely closer to 280k. Was averaging around 20mpg when odometer was still working. Have a box of spare parts from previous owner. Low ball offers will be ridiculed."

Here is a my first and beloved Toyota van. I got this van from a grandmother in Seattle and she seized the engine. I took an engine that was at a wrecking yard with 68,000 miles and dropped the engine out of this one and put that new engine in. It runs like a dream, Everything is pretty much new. . .

i drives soooo smooth on the freeway.

I got new shocks all the way around,
Upgraded rims from an LE,
New tires with less then 300 miles on them.

So many new parts its too much to list.
I was going to keep this one
I am almost hoping it does not sell.

New water pump, factory toyota thermostat, all new hoses and belts including the hose of death, new alternator, new ball joints, new shocks & struts
I picked up red matching mid seat and rear seats

Beautiful 87 Toyota Van for sale today only. If you know about these vans they are super rare and super reliable. There are websites dedicated to drivers and collectors. Don't miss your chance to grab this gem. It has a custom paint job I paid 2000 dollars for 2 years ago. I am moving to downtown LA and cannot have 2 vehicles to be responsible for there. It's a tough choice but need to part ways. It is the only reason I am not asking over 2 for the Van. After today it will be in my buddies hands trying to be sold for 2500. Im not the negotiating type or in the mood to deal with any bullshit today. If you're serious on buying the Van, come over, test drive it, inspect it, do whatever you'd like but be ready to buy if you like it. Registration is paid for the rest of the year. Please contact via text or phone. Have time to make a run to the DMV to make the transaction legit. Please only serious inquiries."

"Immaculate condition. All factory power options, door locks Windows. Dual sunroofs dual climate control and working "ice maker" fridge in console. High end stereo usb and I pod hook ups.
New front shocks. 5 speed manual newer clutch interior is immaculate seats fold in to twin size bed. Super solid all the way around. Text any time."

Here it is! This is the van that tells it like it is! No unnecessary crap, simply a full on utilitarian vehicle. Big enough to haul full sheets of plywood. Will sleep two adults comfortably. Small enough to drive on the sidewalk if you are so inclined. This is the van that will appreciate in value with the passage of time. Better than the stock market! This is the van that makes it clear who you won't be voting for in the presidential election! This van has Warn Locking hubs. This van has a nonworking icemaker with the original ice cube trays. This van has captains seats that will lay flat for sleeping or other horizontal activities. 4 wheel drive for you outdoorsy types and automatic transmission for ease of handling in the city.

Bring some money and purchase this van. You will be glad you did!

This van has needs, no doubt, but it runs and drives and is ready for whatever you can dream up for it...camper van, prepper rig, off road rig, work van, or toy!

Comes with a full tank of gas!"

1985 Toyota Van - Almost always starts - Parts or rebuild - $600 (West Olympia)It runs and drives, with some exceptions. If it gets all the way warm, and then sits for 10 to 60 minutes, it won't start until it cools ALL the way down. (like, a couple hours). Exception: it will fire right up if you jumpstart it. This is getting worse.

It doesn't shift into overdrive until it's ALL the way warm, like a few miles down the freeway. This is getting worse.

Those are really the two dealbreakers for us - we haven't been able to track down those problems and our trusted mechanic hasn't been able to either.

It has many other quirks, which we have happily lived with for years, like that the 12V charger only works intermittently, and the gas gauge works but only if you know the secret code. The dash lights usually work, but not always (headlights always work). When I bought it about 6 years ago, the engine and transmission had just been rebuilt. The chassis has almost 250k miles on it. The rebuilt engine and tranny just around 35k. In the last year, it's had a new starter and alternator put in. Well maintained as far as routine maintenance.

Body has a lot of useable parts, no major rust. The panel just below the gas nozzle has some old poorly-bonded repairs, and the sliding door is banged up a little. Interior is mostly gutted.

We've had a lot of good times in this rig, and I'd love to see it go to someone who wants to turn it into something cool.

Lost title. Registration not current. $600 obo. Not hard to apply for a lost title, if you want it. If you're just going to part it out, then I wouldn't bother.

"I bought it with a smashed front end and was rear ended by some dumbass doing everything except looking forward while she was driving."

On january 15th this was an awesome van. 145k miles. everything including air conditioning worked. glorious condition inside and out.

Then a mail truck hit it while it was parked.

Unfortunately the next step is the junkyard. If you are one of the rare lucky souls to have one of these ferocious vehicles and would like any part of mine send me a note. Anyone who's willing to give me more than the junk yard will can have as much or as little of it as they want.

Someone should take the engine/trans/interior/trim etc. etc. etc. It's totaled, but that's just because body damage is so expensive.

Cant just hammer it out either, the trunk is all bent and the rear axel is compromised. But everything forward of the side windows is completely fine.

It was perfect.

Lame. So lame. But hopefully someone out there gets an extra 200k miles on theirs as a result.

Anyway, email me if you're interested. It's parked where it was assaulted, Euclid near UC Berkeley.

It's parked legally and i cant bring myself to make the call to get it hauled off so it will probably be there for a while.

"Older Toyota van, a unique design and complete. This vehicle starts, runs, drives and stops. The engine has a tick and probably needs a head gasket ( kit included with van) and sorry- no keys. But, that's not all folks, if you act right now I will include a FREE parts van. With title."

I'm regretfully selling my 2 owner 1986 Toyota Van LE with 171k original miles.

I purchased it from the original owner!

My van is decked out with Color changing LED lights, 6 speakers 2000 watt system, 22" LCD TV with DVD player, wrap around limo seating, CD and Bluetooth capable stereo. It's a mini party van that can seat up to 7 grown adults comfortably !Roof rack for extra storage space and a curved 52" LED light bar.

Beautiful 1985 Toyota Van LE adventure mobile for sale with only 110,500 miles on her. Ready to pass the torch to someone to care for this beauty and continue the van adventures.

2WD Automatic

Rear Wheel Drive

4 Cylinder

Pros:

Low miles

Very clean interior

Runs great

Cosmetically beautiful

New radiator

New starter

New fuel pump

New alternator

Windows all roll up/down/slide open/closed

New front speakers

Custom made bench seat that folds into flat surface

Custom curtain rods installed

Tinted windows (see cons)

Cons:

Two rust spots under sliding door window

Small dent (from rock) above front headlight

Broken console

Needs new tires

Seat belts no longer work for custom backseat

Removed back seats

DIY custom tint (far from flawless)

Truly devastated to have to sell her. Serious inquires only. Cash only. No low ball offers.

I Wuv My Van

I Wuv My Van

I Wuv My Van

that's what I'd have to sing to myself after a while of driving around New Orleans in the fall of 2005 you had to be careful about what neighborhoods you took in there came a point about an hour into such closely taken in devastation, maybe you went out, poking through the debris of home after home after home, till something made you have to run back into the little toyota van, shuddering and shivering and feeling an awful cloak of dire insoluble muck settling over you just had to sing...its the most stolen vehicle in america, mine in particular, twice in 3 weeks all it takes is a screwdriver or a fork or anything to open it and turn the ignition so I spray painted it radioactive lime green pink and brown but then I felt bad at stop signs so I painted it grey and drove it cross country that's a nice experience because that windshield sits on your face like spectacles, right on top of the road and sky is all there is I get back in that van put thumb and forefinger 4 o'clock on the wheel, barely tap the accelerator you got to go slow on these streets and sing:

I Wuv My Van

I Wuv My Van

I Wuv My Van

and you Wuv My Van too

in your fair summer dress

we're gonna get you to the airplane in 2003-06
